First Khutbah

My dear brothers in Islam, I advise myself first, and then all of you, to have taqwa of Allah.

Today we are reminded of something none of us can avoid: death.

Allah says in Surah Ali Imran, (verse 185):

“Every soul will taste death”

We attend funerals and bury people we know. Yet we often live as if death is far away from us.

We make plans for next week, next year and retirement. But none of us knows whether we will see tomorrow.

Allah says in Surah An-Nisa, (verse 78):

“Death will overtake you no matter where you may be, even inside high towers.”

When death arrives, our plans end. We cannot ask for more time to finish our work, pay off our house or become better Muslims.

Think of the last funeral you attended. The family and friends went home, but the person who was buried could not return to this world.

The Prophet Muhammad, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam, taught in Sahih al-Bukhari (Hadith 6514) that family, wealth and deeds follow a person to the grave. Family and wealth return, but deeds remain.

My dear brothers in Islam, that is what we must prepare: our deeds.

Are we praying our salah, giving charity, treating our parents kindly and asking Allah for forgiveness?

Shaytan tells us to delay. Pray later. Repent later. Leave that sin later. But death may arrive before that later comes.

The Messenger of Allah, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam, said in Jami at-Tirmidhi (Hadith 2307):

“Increase in remembrance of the severer of pleasures.”

Remembering death should help us make better choices, not make us lose hope.

If you owe someone money, try to repay it. If you have hurt someone, apologise. If you have fallen into sin, return to Allah.

Do not wait until you are old or sick. The time to prepare is now.

May Allah forgive us, help us correct our mistakes and grant us a good ending, Ameen.

Second Khutbah

My dear brothers in Islam, again I advise myself and you to have taqwa of Allah.

We all know that death will come, but we must also prepare for it while we are alive.

The Prophet Muhammad, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam, said in Sahih al-Bukhari (Hadith 6416):

"Be in this world as if you were a stranger or a traveler."

A traveller remembers where he is going. We should remember that this world is not our final home.

Protect your salah. Make sincere tawbah. Treat your family with kindness. Pay your debts and help those in need.

Do not think you have sinned too much to return to Allah. His mercy is great, and we still have time to change today.

This could be our final Friday, even though we do not know it.

Let us leave this masjid with one sincere decision to improve our lives.

May Allah forgive those who have passed away, guide us, protect us from the punishment of the grave and admit us into Jannah, Ameen.
