First khutbah · English

My dear brothers in Islam,

I advise myself first, and then all of you, to have taqwa of Allah.

Today's khutbah is about one of the greatest blessings and responsibilities Allah has given us: our children.

Our children are growing up in a world filled with phones, social media, videos and influences that many of us did not have when we were young. Technology can help them learn, but it can also expose them to things that harm their faith and character.

Allah says in Surah At-Tahrim, (verse 6):

"Believers, guard yourselves and your families against a Fire fuelled by people and stones"

We teach our children to cross the road safely and protect themselves from danger. But are we giving the same attention to their iman, salah and understanding of Islam?

The Prophet Muhammad, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam, explained in Sahih al-Bukhari, (Hadith 7138):

"Everyone of you is a guardian and is responsible for his charges"

Parents are responsible for caring for their children. We cannot leave their Islamic upbringing to chance.

My dear brothers in Islam,

Children learn from what we do. If we tell them to pray but neglect our own salah, what message do they receive? If we teach honesty but they hear us lying, what are we showing them?

Our actions often teach our children more than our words.

Teach children why we worship Allah. Explain His mercy, the importance of prayer and the beautiful character of the Prophet Muhammad, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam. Help them love their religion, rather than hearing only rules and warnings.

Allah tells us in Surah Luqman, (verse 17), about a father's advice to his son:

"Keep up the prayer, my son; command what is right; forbid what is wrong"

My dear brothers in Islam,

Make time to listen to what your children have to say. Let them explain their worries without immediately interrupting or becoming angry. When they feel heard, they are more likely to come to you for help instead of seeking advice from the wrong people.

Put your phone down and spend time with them. Know what younger children are watching online. Set sensible limits and follow those limits yourselves.

Children also need affection and encouragement. The Prophet, Sallahu Alayhi wa Salam, showed love to children and said in Sahih al-Bukhari, (Hadith 5997):

"Whoever is not merciful to others will not be treated mercifully."

Be firm when needed, but do not make children feel worthless when they make mistakes. Teach them with patience and mercy.

My dear brothers in Islam,

Allah teaches us in Surah Al-Furqan, (verse 74), to ask:

"Our Lord, give us joy in our spouses and offspring."

May Allah guide our children, protect their iman, help us become better parents and make our homes places of love and remembrance of Him, Ameen.

Seeking forgiveness

Aqoolu qawlee haadhaa, wa astaghfirullaha lee wa lakum,
wa li saa'i-ril muslimeena min kulli dhanb.
Fastaghfirooh, innahu huwal ghafoorur raheem. ▶ Audio

أَقُولُ قَوْلِي هَذَا، وَأَسْتَغْفِرُ اللَّهَ لِي وَلَكُمْ، وَلِسَائِرِ الْمُسْلِمِينَ مِنْ كُلِّ ذَنْبٍ،
فَاسْتَغْفِرُوهُ، إِنَّهُ هُوَ الْغَفُورُ الرَّحِيمُ.

Sit briefly between the two khutbahs.

Second khutbah · English

My dear brothers in Islam,

Again, I advise myself and all of you to have taqwa of Allah.

We have heard about our responsibility towards our children. Now we must put it into practice.

Let your children see you praying. Read some Quran together, even for a few minutes. Ask how their day went, listen to their answers and spend time together without screens.

Remember that every child is different. Do not constantly compare one child with another. Encourage their strengths and patiently help with their difficulties.

As they grow older, they may ask difficult questions about Islam or things they see online. Do not simply become angry. If you know the answer, explain it clearly. If you do not, ask someone qualified.

And if a grown child has moved away from Islam, continue making dua, keeping communication open and showing good character. Guidance comes from Allah.

Let us begin by becoming the example we want our children to follow.

May Allah protect our sons and daughters, guide those who have moved away from Him, grant wisdom to parents and reunite our families in Jannah, Ameen.

Closing duas
